EUROPEAN JESUIT NGO NETWORK

Xavier

Xavier Network

A European network of NGOs working in international cooperation and linked to the Society of Jesus

Our mission

The organisations which form the Xavier Network work to promote justice through comprehensive development initiatives designed for the world's most underprivileged people.

Through this Network we intend:

- To exchange experiences with the goal of making our local initiatives more complete and effective.
- To combine efforts through the implementation of joint development programs, not only in areas where our organisations are usually present, but in new regions where we would like to work as a network. In addition, we work together to respond to possible emergencies.
- To develop cooperative programs of awareness raising, voluntary work, and education for promoting solidarity.

What we do

The Xavier Network works primarily in three key areas:

- International cooperation to offer development opportunities to the most underprivileged people and communities through the personal, social, economic, and cultural promotion of women and men.
- Awareness raising and advocacy to promote international solidarity in the North through education campaigns, political advocacy initiatives and training and informational activities on themes related to international cooperation for development.
- Promotion of voluntary work to provide the training and personal guidance for volunteers in both the North and South.
